Dear #firstname# ,

Do you have 4 minutes to spare today? If so, I promise I'll make it worth your while...

MaryEllen began this journey with Working Moms Only because she believed that working moms have more influence on and responsibility for the future of this world than any other single group of people.

As her husband my role here at Working Moms Only goes far beyond emails, newsletter, layouts and details. MaryEllen's vision has now become my own personal vision. I want to do whatever we can to make life easier for you.

Having the utmost respect for all of you working moms I want to offer MaryEllen's skills and strategies to this growing community.

So, I got to thinking of a way that we might be able to support you more fully.

What we came up with is right here.
